Topic: This special roundtable discussion, hosted by the Northern Section of the Nevada Chapter of the American Planning Association, will feature several speakers and presenters from past Northern Section online educational luncheons as well as additional invited guests to discuss where we, as a state, as a profession, and within our individual communities or organizations are in terms of the actions being taken in response to COVID-19. Topics will include the vulnerabilities of our communities or organizations as exposed by COVID-19, what communities and organizations are doing in regard to resiliency planning and further emergency and public health planning, and what lessons we can learn in a variety of areas in order to better prepare for future pandemics or natural/human caused disasters. The panel will be moderated by Bob Webb, AICP and Retired Principal Planner with Washoe County.

Panelists and Moderators:

Jeff Borchardt, AICP and Principal Planner with the City of Reno
Amy Cummings, AICP, LEED AP, Deputy Executive Director/Director Planning with the RTC of Washoe County
Angela Fuss, Acting Community Director with the City of Reno
Rodney Jorgensen, Senior Business Development Advisor with the Nevada Small Business Development Center
Sami Real, Planning Manager for Current Planning with Clark County
Tim Thompson, Planning Director with the City of Fernley
Doug Thornley, Assistant City Manager with the City of Sparks
Marco Velotta, AICP, LEED, Planning Department and Long Range Planning with the City of Las Vegas
Bob Webb (Moderator), AICP and Planning Manager with Washoe County (Ret.)

This Special Roundtable Discussion will consist of a 45 minute to 60 minute panel discussion followed by a Question and Answer Session where panelists will be available to answer your questions.
